Avoid hitting the headlines and risking serious detriment! It's just too easy to become complacent about Legionella, especially if you're employing a contractor. Now's the time to act and keep tenants and colleagues safe.

Our expert speakers will demystify the regulations and focus on what you need to do. Share best practice with other delegates. Develop practical and easy-to-implement approaches.

What's covered?

- An overview of Legionella and the landlord's responsibilities
- A breakdown of what a water risk assessment should cover, including the requirements of BS:8580 (British Standard). Crucial if an external contractor undertakes them on your behalf
- What to look for when selecting a contractor to work with and how to monitor them effectively
- A national contractor's view: how to work effectively with the client including best practice
- Practical case studies: presenting a variety of strategies to implement Legionella management and deal with associated risks.

Exclusive!

All delegates will receive:

- A delegate pack featuring valuable practitioner presentations from each session
- An electronic copy of the SAFETYnet briefing Legionella and the landlord – what does it mean to you?

Plus! A specially commissioned case study relating to the perils from increasing water temperatures.

Our speakers

Join chair and SAFETYnet Lead, Vicki Cutler as she welcomes Steve Mount, HQN Associate and Managing Director of Steve Mount Associates Ltd; Chris Brown, Water Hygiene Director, Integrated Water Systems, and a practitioner who will be sharing their experiences.
