As the government's consultation comes to an end our high calibre speakers consider the implications from a variety of different angles and dispel any myths. Unlike other pensions events, this one focuses specifically on the social housing sector.

The government remains committed to securing the full Spending Review savings. Every pension scheme needs to find savings. Find out the latest, and what it means for your organisation.

Introduced and chaired by Frank Czarnowski, Chief Executive of West Kent Housing Association, we'll look at the issues and challenges ahead:

- The context: Toni Clark, pensions enabling specialist at the Department for Work and Pensions, sets out the background to the reforms and the process for change
- Risk and the future: Peter Shellswell, Director of First Actuarial, with expert independent guidance on managing risk and his view of what the future will bring
- The impact of reform: Nigel Keogh, Technical Manager of CIPFA, outlines the impact of the Hutton report and pension reform. Colin Small, chair of SHPS, with the low-down on how pension reform will affect individual schemes directly
- Auto-enrolment: as the consultation period closes, Jason Collis from the Pensions Advisory Service looks at how auto-enrolment will impact on scheme providers, including an opportunity for delegates to express their views before the consultation closes

- Reporting and public entity provision: Mark Packham, Director of Pensions at PricewaterhouseCoopers, gives expert insight into the key issues relating to FRS17, International Financial Reporting Standards for local authorities and Public Benefit Entity provisions for housing associations

- Looking beyond the figures: Steve Tolley, political reporter from Money Marketing explores the wider background to pension reform – the political climate, what's driving it, the enthusiasm/resistance there is for change. And a prominent HR director will look at the wider impact on people and staffing.
